Affects version:	3.3.2

Description

During playback, Audacious' CPU usage is around 8% on my machine and X11's is around 10%. When enabling the cairo spectrum plugin, they go up to 9% and 45%, respectively.

In version 3.3.1, the CPU usage was normal with the spectrum analyzer enabled.

On my system:

```
                       Audacious   X
Without Cairo spectrum:  7.6%      4.9%
With Cairo spectrum:     8.3%      5.0%
```

Also, there were no changes made to the Cairo spectrum plugin between 3.3.1 and 3.3.2.

I suggest you look elsewhere for the cause of the high CPU usage. If you are using a compositing window manager, disabling that would be a good place to start.
